John Corder, Sr

Birth: 1761
Fauquier County
Virginia, USA
Death: Jan. 24, 1849
Amissville
Rappahannock County
Virginia, USA

John Corder (1761-1849) descended from the William (b. 1703) and Alice Corder Family of Fauquier County, Virginia. He served in the Revolutionary War and in the Virginia Militia. After the War he married Hannah Way(?), and they had 11 children. Four of his sons and their families migrated to Missouri in 1839. John Corder's son Elias, Elias' wife, and some of their children (e.g., Judson Alexander Corder) are buried in the cemetery which is located a couple of miles west of the village of Amissville (Rappahannock Co., VA) near the intersection of Rts. 211 and 640.

Pvt John Corder

Birth: 1761
Death: Jan. 24, 1849
Amissville
Rappahannock County
Virginia, USA

This John Corder descends from the William Corder (b. 1703) and his wife, Alice, of Fauquier County, Virginia. He was a grandson of William Corder. John was born in Fauquier County, Virginia in 1761 and was living there when he joined the Revolutionary War. After the war, he received approximately 200 acres of land from Lord Fairfax and built a 4-room log house upon it. He married a woman whose first name was Hannah and whose last name is believed to have been Way. They had 11 children together, 5 of whom migrated (in 1839) to Missouri with their families. Two of his sons (Nathan and John, Jr.) settled near what is now known as the Town of Corder which is located in Lafayette County, Missouri. In 1835, John purchased land in Rappahannock County, VA which was near the properties of his sons. After the death of his first wife, John Corder married again. He married his housekeeper, Mary Maddox (the widow of Samuel Maddox), in 1845. Although legally blind in his old age, he, evidently, was still sexually active well into his eighties! His brother, James Corder, who also served in the Revolutionary War, however, his burial site is unknown.
