Notes for Jose Antonio de la Garza:

José Antonio de la Garza, early landowner in San Antonio and the first person to coin money in Texas, was born on May 31, 1776, in San Antonio de Béxar, the son of Leonardo de la Garza and Magdalena Martínez. He married Josefa Rivas, and they had three children. On July 20, 1824, he married María Josefa Menchaca; they had four children, one of whom was Leonard Garza, a Williams College graduate, banker, and business owner in San Antonio in the 1890s. With permission of the Spanish governor, Garza became the first person to coin money in Texas. On one side of the coin were his initials, "JAG," and the date 1818; on the other side was a single star. One writer speculates that this may have inspired the "lone star," which later became a Texas symbol. The small coins were worth the equivalent of a nickel, and Garza minted them at a building on Houston and Soledad streets for about a year and a half. In 1824 he received Mexican title to two leagues of land and became one of the largest landowners in Bexar County. His extensive ranchlands lay near the San Antonio and Medina rivers. He was one of the Bexar officials to sign the articles resulting from the Convention of 1832. He purchased San Francisco de la Espada Mission, probably in early 1834, a transaction that apparently angered some residents, who considered the sale illegal. Some Texans thought that Garza was sympathetic to the Mexican cause during the Texas Revolution. In the 1840s he moved into a house built in 1801 near Calaveras Lake in southeast Bexar County. The house, a two-story structure, served as a church, school, and community center. Garza was probably the man reported by the Texas State Gazette to have died in San Antonio on May 5, 1851. In 1876 Garza County was named after the Garza family, which had been in San Antonio for two centuries.

xiii. Leandro Chaves¹⁴¹, born Bet. 1809 - 1810 in La Villa de San Fernando de Béxar^{142,143}; died 1881 in San Antonio, Bexar Co., Texas¹⁴⁴; married (1) Josefa Carvajal 1835¹⁴⁵; born 1819 in Mexico¹⁴⁵; died August 07, 1852 in San Antonio, Bexar Co., Texas¹⁴⁵; married (2) Manuela Olguin May 09, 1856 in San Antonio, Bexar Co., Texas^{146,147}; born Abt. 1820 in Mexico¹⁴⁸; married (3) Josefa Martinez September 10, 1877 in San Antonio, Bexar Co., Texas; born Abt. 1852 in Texas¹⁴⁹.

Notes for Leandro Chaves:
In December of 1835, San Antonio de Béxar was under the control of Mexican General Perfecto de Cos with about 1200 soldiers from Mexico. For almost two months, Texas volunteers had camped near the town in a virtual standoff with Cos. The stalemate ended, however, when one of the Texas leaders, Ben Milam, returned from a brief absence to find that the Texans were about to withdraw to Goliad.

Voicing strong opposition to the retreat, Milam appealed to the Texans with his now-famous words, "Who will go with old Ben Milam into San Antonio?" Some 300 volunteers responded.

Starting before daybreak on December 5, the Texans, led by Milam and Frank W. Johnson, began their siege. Against heavy odds in both men and artillery, the Texans skirmished for the next two days. On December 7, Milam was shot and killed. The death of their leader seemed to inspire the Texans as they engaged in house-to-house combat that continued for two more days.

At daybreak on December 9, after four days of fighting, Cos signalled a Mexican truce. In exchange for the parole and return of Cos and his men to Mexico, the Texans gained all of the public property, guns and ammunition in San Antonio.

During the siege, the Texans lost only four men killed (including Milam) and fifteen wounded. They gained, however, one of the most important strongholds in Texas. Within a few months, the Mexicans would return to retake the town during the bloody Siege and Battle of the Alamo.

Leandro Chaves was one of the 300 men who participated in the Siege of Bexar.

3848. RODRIGUEZ³¹².

Child of RODRIGUEZ is:

1924 i. Francisco Xavier Rodriguez.

3856. Capitán Fernando Durán y Chaves II³¹³, born 1651 in Bernalillo, New Mexico; died 1716 in Atrisco, New Mexico. He was the son of 7712. Sargento Mayor Fernando Duran y Chaves I and 7713. Maria de Carvajal. He married 3857. Doña Lucia Hurtado de Salas in New Mexico.

3857. Doña Lucia Hurtado de Salas^{314,315}, born Abt. 1659 in Santa Fe, New Mexico; died February 02, 1729 in Atrisco, New Mexico. She was the daughter of 7714. Andres Hurtado and 7715. Bernardina de Salas y Trujillo.

Notes for Capitán Fernando Durán y Chaves II:

DON FERNANDO DURAN Y CHAVES, who escaped in 1680 from the Sandia district with his wife, Lucía Hurtado, and four small children, was the only member of the large Durán y Chaves clan to return with his family at the time of the Reconquest. 1 During the 1680-93 exile at Guadalupe del Paso he took part in the futile Otermín Expedition, and was one of the Regidores of the colony, 2 and with the arrival of Governor Vargas he became one of his councillors. 3 In the grand Entrada into Santa Fe, December 16, 1693, Don Fernando led with the Royal Standard as Real Alférez, 4 but soon after moved to the ancestral lands at Bernalillo; here and at San Felipe Pueblo he maneuvered the colonists and Indians so as to forestall disaster during the uprising of 1696, though he had to disagree with Vargas as to tactics; subsequently he vanquished the Jémez Indians at San Diego Canyon, when they fled into the Navajo country. 5 Governor Vargas, taken ill during an Apache campaign in the Sandias in 1704, was carried to Bernalillo where he made his will and died, presumably in the Chaves house, for Don Fernando and his eldest son, Bernardo, signed as official witnesses of the last will and testaments. 6

By 1707 he and the family had moved to Atrisco, while Bernardo and his young family remained at Bernalillo. At Atrisco Don Fernando made his last will on February 11, 1707, but he was still living as late as 1712.⁷ By 1716 he was referred to as dead. 8

His widow, Lucía Hurtado de Salas, lived with some of her sons until her death on February 3, 1729.⁹ Their ten children are named in their father's will in this order: Bernardo, Pedro, Antonio, Isabel, Francisco, Luis, Nicolás, María, Catalina, and Pedro Gómez Durán. 10 The four eldest had been born before 1680 in the Sandia-Bernalillo area; the rest at Guadalupe del Paso.

Before his marriage Don Fernando had a natural daughter, Clara de Chaves, mother not known, who became the wife of Juan de la Mora Pineda. 11

Of his three daughters, Isabel married Jacinto Peláez, and then Baltasar de Mata; María, wife of Antonio de Ulibarrí, died without issue; and Catalina became the wife of Matías de Miranda.

Don Fernando Durán y Cháves II (ONMF: 20-21, 160-161) who returned to New Mexico under Governor Vargas identified himself as a son of don Pedro Durán y Cháves, and thus was not a son of the first Fernando Durán y Cháves as originally documented in ONMF. The following translation of a document dated 28 October 1692 at Mejía in New Mexico and part of the original documents pertaining to the Atrisco land grant provides this valuable genealogical data: "Don Fernando de Cháves requests the tract is also on the Rio Grande, commonly called Atrisco, also of agricultural land with its acequia madre and this one in from the bluff where there is an old house in which Juan de Perea lived going down the riverside as far as some corrals which Colonel Juan Dominguez, my brother-in-law, had and on said tract my father, Don Pedro Duran y Chaves, lived and also some other persons by permission."

- i. Clara Duran y Chaves, born 1673.
- ii. Bernardo Duran y Chaves, born 1675 in Sandia-Bernalillo³¹⁶; died November 19, 1705 in Sandia-Bernalillo; married Francisca de Mizquia January 07, 1699 in Santa Fe, New Mexico³¹⁷; born Bet. 1667 - 1684; died Abt. 1714.

Notes for Bernardo Duran y Chaves:

Bernardo D. y Chaves, who signed the will of Vargas with his father in 1704, remained with his wife and children at Bernalillo. He gave his age as twenty in 1695.¹² In 1705, when playing an Indian-scare prank, he was accidentally shot and mortally wounded by a Gallegos cousin, leaving his young wife and three small children. He was buried on November 19, 1705.¹³

Bernardo had married Francisca de Mizquia, at Santa Fe in 1699.¹⁴ They had two boys and a girl: José, April 24, 1700; María Manuela, June 15, 1703; and Juan, February 26, 1705.¹⁵ In their mother's last will in 1714, the girl is mentioned as Lucia Manuela; their mother was married to Juan de Ulibarri at this time. ¹⁶ One son, José, was married and living at Guadalupe del Paso in 1769, while his brother Juan resided in Santa Fe; Luisa (or Lucia) was already dead. ¹⁷

07, 1735 in Bernalillo, New Mexico³¹⁸; married (1) Juana Montoya; married (2) Maria Gertrudis Sánchez January 12, 1728; born in Atrisco, NM.

Notes for Pedro Duran y Chaves:

Pedro D. y Chaves married Juana Montoya on January 27, 1703.¹⁸ His was one of the supposed "twelve" founding families of Albuquerque in 1706.¹⁹ In 1713 he was a squadron leader of the militia and conducted ex-Governor Felix Martínez back to Mexico City; but he resigned in 1716 because of illness; yet he is numbered among those who took part in the Moqui campaign of this year. ²⁰

In March, 1735, his estate was probated due to the fact that he was dying, having been out of his senses for some time. But he rallied enough to draw up his will, and died on December 7, 1735. After Bernardo's death he had come into possession of his father's will, but due to his illness it had passed into the hands of the next brother, Antonio, who was absent from "the Kingdom" at this time. ²¹

Pedro had ten children by Juana Montoya, named in the will as follows: Manuela, wife of Sebastian Marcelino; Monica, wife of Antonio Baca; Joséfa, married to Francisco Sánchez; Efigenia, wife of Jacinto Sánchez; Francisco Xavier; Quiteria; Juana; and three minors who had been placed with their uncle, Francisco D. y Chaves, when Pedro married a second time. These minors were: Diego Antonio, twelve; María Luisa, ten, and Eusebio, eight. ²²

Pedro's second wife was Gertrudis Sánchez, by whom he had five children, one of them dead, but none are mentioned by name in the will. This marriage took place on January 12, 1728.²³ The four living children are found elsewhere as follows: Salvador Manuel, born on June 9, 1731; José, born on June 1, 1733 ²⁴ who married twice, lived in Bernalillo, had many children, ²⁵ and was the "José Chaves of New Mexico" killed by Apaches near el Paso, December 9, 1772; ²⁶ a daughter, not named, who was married to Antonio Gutiérrez; ²⁷ and a Pedro II, referred to years later as a son of old Pedro, ^{27a} who was therefore the fourth living child of this marriage.

Of the unmarried daughters by the first wife mentioned in Pedro's will, Quiteria finally married a Bernardo Padilla after some trouble; ²⁸ María Luisa (Lucia) reared by her uncle Francisco, could very well be the woman who married Miguel Montoya as Francisco's daughter; Juana seems to be the one who married Domingo Baca.

Of the sons by the first wife, Francisco Xavier, the eldest son among many girls, was considered a wastrel by his sisters; ²⁹ he was the man of this name who married Manuela Padilla on September 29, 1735.³⁰ Diego Antonio, the next son but very much younger, among the minors of his father's will, married his third cousin, Juana Silva, December 14, 1740.³¹ If his elder brother was the wastrel that his sisters accused him of being, it explains how Diego Antonio could have inherited the original Chaves document and signet-ring later inherited by Colonel Manuel Antonio Chaves of Civil War fame. ³² Eusebio, the youngest son, married Vibiana Martín Serrano on August 19, 1752;³³ he vainly tried to get grants and honors on the merits of his ancestors for himself and his sons, Blas and Juan Miguel, in 1774, and is said to have voyaged to Spain for the purpose. ³⁴

Notes for Hernan Sanchez Rico:

The following information regarding a record of passage from Spain to New Spain offers an intriguing and possibly valuable opportunity to acquire additional information about the family of Pedro Gómez Durán y Cháves in Spain:

"#4065. Alonso García Cerrato, natural de Valverde de Llerena, hijo de Hernán Sánchez Rico y de Leonor Durana, con su mujer Catalina Cabeza, natural de Valverde, hija de Alonso García Izquierda y de María Cabeza, y sus hijos Leonor, Cristóbal, Fernando y María, a Nueva España —9 de Junio 1576. 5225-A, No. 2, R.36.

According to information found in ONMF, Pedro Gómez Duran y Cháves (ONMF: 19) —b.ca. 1550), the progenitor of the Cháves family of New Mexico, was a native of Valverde de Llerena and a son of Hernan Sánchez Rico. Could Alonso García Cerrato be a brother Pedro Gómez Durán y Cháves? It would certainly be most worthwhile for an interested researcher to acquired the documents that make up this record of passage and examine the specific contents. Records of passage often provide some personal information about the people who sought license to travel to the Spanish realms of the New World. There may have been witnesses who knew the family that provided testimony on behalf of the character of the couple. There may be a copy of a marriage certificate, and possibly additional information on the family lineage that could be of assistance in extending the family line in Spain. Also, it would be important to confirm all the names extracted from the record. In particular, was the surname Durana a mistaken transcription for Durán?

If a researcher does acquire the records of passage for Alonso García Cerrato and Catalina Cabeza, please consider making the information available on this web site.

61700. Juan de Vaca, born 1537 in Mexico City, New Spain. He was the son of 123400. Luis de Vaca.

Notes for Juan de Vaca:

There were 4 recorded Juan de Vaca's that came to the New World from 1520-1539. Of these, one from Mayorga is recorded as settling in Mexico in 1538. His parents were Nuño de Vaca and Beatriz de Quiñones.

Alvar Nuñez Cabeza De Vaca (b. c. 1490, Extremadura, Castile [now in Spain]--d. c. 1560, Seville, Spain), Spanish explorer who spent eight years in the Gulf region of present-day Texas and whose accounts of the legendary Seven Golden Cities of Cibola probably inspired the extensive explorations of southern and southwestern North America by Hernando de Soto and Francisco Coronado.

Núñez was treasurer to the Spanish expedition under Pánfilo de Narváez that reached what is now Tampa Bay, Fla., in 1528. By September all but his party of 60 had perished; it reached the shore near present-day Galveston, Texas. Of this group only 15 were still alive the following spring, and eventually only Núñez and three others remained. In the following years he and his companions spent much time among nomadic Indians. Though he found only the gravest hardship and poverty during his wanderings, by the time he encountered a party of Spanish raiders in northern Mexico in 1536 he was full of stories of the fabulous riches of a new Eldorado, the Seven Golden Cities of Cibola, lying somewhere beyond the regions he had passed through. He recounted his adventures in Naufragios . . . (1542; "Shipwrecks . . ."). He was later appointed governor of the province of Río de la Plata, and from November 1541 to March 1542 he blazed a route from Santos, Brazil, to Asunción, Paraguay. His power was usurped by a rebel governor, Domingo Martinez de Irala, who imprisoned him and had him deported to Spain (1545), where he was convicted of malfeasance in office and banished to service in Africa. His La Relación y Comentarios . . . (1555), describing his journey from Santos to Asunción, is a valuable geographic work.
